

	program, and before leaving the United States so that appropriate arrangements can be made. Title IX Statement Arcadia University is committed to assuring a safe and productive educational environment for all students. In order to meet this commitment and to comply with Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 and guidance from the Office for Civil Rights, the University requires faculty members to report incidents of sexual violence shared by students to the University's Title IX Coordinator. The only exceptions a faculty member's reporting obligation are when incidents of sexual violence are communicated by a student during a classroom discussion, in a writing assignment for a class, or as part of a University-approved research project. Information regarding the reporting of sexual violence and the resources that are available to victims of sexual violence is set forth at https://www.arcadia.edu/university/policies-guidelines/title-ix.
Prerequisites:	None.
Country and Program Connection:	The course presents an opportunity to engage with the problems that affect the social reality both on the local level (Granada), national (Spain) and supranational (the context of the European Union). The comprehension of the current and past processes which have shaped the cultural landscape of Spain is necessary to understand the debates and dilemmas which structure social relations and conflicts in the area. The students are expected to improve their knowledge of the receiving context as well as to develop capacities to critically assess the current social tendencies in the region.

Intellectual property copyright Arcadia University