| Course Description: | Through a combination of city walks, building visits and seminar sessions this course studies the urban fabric of London, from its reconstruction after the Great Fire in 1666 to the present day. The course provides a historic and social mapping of the city through first hand encounters with buildings and urban space. We will explore different types of building – from historic churches to contemporary shopping malls, from theatres to housing – and reflect on issues regarding the provision and use of public space within the city.

The course addresses the city and architecture through interdisciplinary approaches, incorporating elements of architectural history, social geography, art practice and cinematography. The course explores the broad social and economic forces behind the evolution of London’s built environment, and also discusses the role of the architect in shaping the spaces of the city, both inside and out. The city will be used as a context for research, explored through the use of different recording techniques, including photography, video and sound. |

Other Policies:

Expectations
Professional behavior is expected of all students. This includes preparation for classes, on-time attendance at classes, attendance at all group sessions and appropriate participation in the form of attentiveness and contributions to the course. Respect for the academic process is the major guiding principle for professional behavior and extends to all communications, including e-mail.

Attendance/Participation
Prompt attendance, full preparation, and active participation in class discussions are expected from every student in every class session.

Course Policies
For e-mail communications, students must use their Arcadia University e-mail account. Students are responsible for any information provided by e-mail or through Intranet postings.

Plagiarism
Representation of another’s work or ideas as one’s own in academic submissions is plagiarism, and is cause for disciplinary action. Cheating is actual or attempted use of resources not authorized by the instructor(s) for academic submissions. Students caught cheating in this course will receive a failing grade. Fabrication is the falsification or creation of data, research or resources to support academic submissions, and cause for disciplinary action.

Late or Missed Assignments
Will not be accepted for grading.

Students with Disabilities
Persons with documented disabilities requiring accommodations to meet the expectations of this course should disclose this information while enrolling into the program, and before leaving the United States so that appropriate arrangements can be made.

Prerequisites:
